A Remarkable Crush

A Remarkable Crush.

The Meyer Store announced through the medium of the local newspapers a unique attraction to inaugurate its "First After Supper Bale." Although the sale was not to take place last night until after 7:30 p. m. the crowd was so great on Broadway and Washington that traffic was interrupted, and it was necessary to lock the doors one-quarter of an hour before the schedule time of sale. Inside the store the crush from the fifth floor to the basement was something impossible to describe. Beveral accidents occurred, though not of a serious character, and it was absolutely necessary in order to protect the lives of its patrons to call in the aid of the police.

Another attempt was made to continue the sale and, although an extra force of salespeople were engaged, the management was totally unable to wait on the immense throng. Consequently, in order to insure the safety of its clerks and patrons, the store was finally closed long before the time intended.

Court Held It Was the Property of

Mrs. Noonan.

The famous Alton Plymouth Rock rooster belongs to Mrs. Ellen Noonan. That is the decision rendered by Justice J. P. Thornton of Alton, who has had the case under advisement since Wednesday.

The decision was made public this afternoon and the rooster, which has been in the hands of Constable Harry Streeper of Upper Alton for ten days, was turned over to Mrs. Noonan. Three weeks ago Mrs. Noonan caused the arrest of Mrs. Laura Hutchinson, a neighbor, alleging that she had purloined her rooster. Mrs. Hutchinson claimed that the fowl was her property, while the plaintiff claimed that she had raised the chicken, and that it had wandered from its home.

After a number of appearances in court, at which the rooster was a conspicuous figure, in the possession of the constabe, the case was heard on last Wednesday. The costs in the Justice Court have already amounted to over 129, and it is said that the defendants will take an appeal.
